We all know that the weight loss resolution is the most common resolution made for the New Year. Well here's a few ideas to keep that resolution, many times the gym is packed with people the first two weeks in January and slowly dies out soon after...

- Don't measure weight loss by the number on the scale- measure by how your pants fit, take monthly or bi-weekly measurements
- Don't deprive yourself, if you continue to do this, many times you will crack and binge
- Keep a regular weight loss regimen... and stick with it

Health and Human Services Needs to Decide "Essential Coverage"

Patients needing physical therapy, for example, for 3 months 3 times a week are potentially at risk with having a cap of only covering 20 visits a year even though there is no dollar cap.

It seems individuals or those that work for companies fewer than 100 people will be getting slighted with the new health coverage plan. Policy experts hope for the best when stating, "coverage requirements will steer clear of arbitrary numerical limits and instead emphasize evidence-based research on the most cost-effective treatments.

Children's National Health Network

By: Richard Tamburello

My staff and I recently attended a very enlightening and highly informative seminar presented by the Children's National Health Network- "Refinancing the Pediatric Medicine Home" - in Bethesda, Maryland. The seminar attendees consisted of physicians, administrators and support personnel; handouts contained information on the upcoming ICD-10 codes as well as tips on making your practice more profitable.

Congratulations to Dr. Mark Weissman and Dr. Charles Medani for their selection of pertinent and much needed subject matter - 'Financing the Medical Home: Moving from Principles to Practice Payment' and 'Coding to Support the Advanced Medical Home', presented by Dr. Joel Bradley.

Our highlights of the seminar were hearing the questions and answers of the attendees as well as networking with fellow CNHN members.
